Re: Deaccession recommendation

Golden History Museum & Park piloted a Legacy Collection Inventory in winter 2019 designed to reappraise the existing collection on hand when the City of Golden commenced museum management in 2010. Now a museum priority, project goals include conducting a complete physical inventory of everything housed at offsite museum storage, updating and improving records, rehousing artifacts when necessary, and finally, reappraising all artifacts for relevancy to museum mission and scope of collection. Now over two years into the project, curatorial staff have inventoried approximately 6,877 artifacts (about 48% of 14,522 cataloged artifacts currently in collection). Note: this artifact count includes all collection inventory activity, and is not limited to the Legacy Collection Inventory. At this pace we anticipate completion in 2025.

I recommend deaccessioning the attached list of 213 artifacts from the permanent collection. (This is the fourth in a series since 2019.) Per policy, Deaccessioning of any object in the GHM&P Permanent Collection will be recommended by GHM&P curatorial staff after careful consideration of the object as it relates to the GHM&P mission statement and scope of collections.

My reasons for deaccession drawn from collection policy are as follows:

- 1. Non-relevance: Any artifact no longer relevant or compatible with the Museum's mission statement may be deaccessioned. These circumstances may arise from wholesale acquisitions of the past, the reorganization of or a change of emphasis within GHM&P.*
- 2. Quality: Any artifact of poor quality which occupies valuable storage space may be approved for deaccessioning.*

Highlights from this selection slated for deaccession include:

Baby and women's clothing, and textiles with no local provenance. Available donor information documents donors as either coming from outside of the Golden community, or actual items lack any historical significance.

Finally, museum staff are still researching possible transfer of the baseball photo to the Berthoud Historical Society. Upon final deaccession approval, items will be sold at public auction and the proceeds deposited in the restricted escrow account for future acquisition and artifact conservation.
